KAHN PRAISES MILITARY MEN STATIONED AT EL PASO

"El Paso has a splendid location for a post, and has done well under the great demands that have been made upon it through the exigencies of the international situation, said Julius Kahn, representative from California, and ranking Republican member of the and ranking Republican member of the control of t and ranking Republican member of the house committee on military affairs.

"I am making this trip to acquaint myself with conditions at first hand," continued Mr. Kahn. "This morning I had the opportunity to witness the marching of a provisional cavalry regiment at war strength at Fort Bliss—a sight that one can very seldom see these days. The men and animals looked very hale and fit after their eight days hike."

GIANT POLICE SAFE MOVED. Five thousand pounds of steel was moved on small rollers with the aid of planks for more than half a block Wed planks for more than half a block Wednesday marning, when workmen removed the ginnt wall safe of the police department from a front office to the rear end of the building. The removal of the safe marked the first time that it has been taken from its foundation in six years. It formerly occupied a position in the old office of the jailor, but with the change of the offices to the rear part of the building, it was decided to remove the safe to where the corporation court clerk could get at it more easily.
